

Ancestors of Marie Luise Riedesel

Generation 1

1. Marie Luise Riedesel, daughter of Johannes Riedesel and Margaretha Ferry, was born on October 19, 1898 in Diedenhofen, Lothringen. She died on June 20, 1977 in Fargo, Cass, North Dakota (Holy Cross Cemetery, Fargo). She married Clifford Barr He was born on March 19, 1898 in Valley City, Barnes, North Dakota. He died on January 21, 1948 in Chicago, Cook, Illinois.

Notes for Marie Luise Riedesel:

Known as Mary. Spent two or so years in the U.S. as a very small child, and then returned on March 14, 1922 on the ship "The Finland" out of Antwerp where she was listed as "Louise." She was bound for North Dakota to marry Clifford Barr. Her emigration record lists her language as German.

Generation 2

2. Johannes Riedesel, son of Peter Riedesel and Katharina Weidenmüller, was born on April 06, 1872 in Leidenhofen, Germany. He died on January 16, 1938 in Gasperich, Luxemburg. He married Margaretha Ferry on July 26, 1897 in Thionville (Diedenhofen).
3. Margaretha Ferry, daughter of Dominique Ferry and Magdalena Bronden, was born in December 1880 in Thionville (Diedenhofen). She died on April 15, 1925 in Luxembourg.

Notes for Johannes Riedesel:

Was born in the village of Leidenhofen near the German city of Marburg. It is now part of the larger community of Ebsdorfergrund. In 1891, he came alone to New York on the ship Noordland (out of Antwerp, arriving December 11). His occupation is given as that of a painter, and he had a single piece of luggage.

By 1897 he was back living in the town called Diedenhofen in Lothringen by the Germans, and Thionville in Lorraine by the French. It was part of the German empire at the time. By 1899, he was again in the U.S. with his wife, infant daughter Luise, and step-sister Marie. Although destined originally for Mt. Clemens, Michigan, they apparently lived in Chicago for two years or so before returning to Europe for good.

Earlier indications were that he died in 1927, but we have death record from 1938. He died at 7:15 p.m. at the house at 29 Georg Clemenceau in the town of Gasperich. French sources refer to him as "Jean", which is the French equivalent of Johannes.

Notes for Peter Riedesel:

He was a native of Leidenhofen, but some time after the death of his first wife, he and his son moved to the area of Diedenhofen in what was then the German province of Lothringen. The latter had recently been wrested from France in the Franco-Prussian War, and would eventually be returned to France in the Treaty of Versailles that ended World War I. The town is now called Thionville and the province is Lorraine. It is reported that Peter sold his house (No. 23 1/2) to Georg Heuser in 1872 for 250 Taler. This could have been at the time he moved away (though following the birth of their youngest child).

The three middle children with his second wife reported Paris as their place of birth, putting the family there from at least 1879-1883.

In Germany, he was employed as a stone hewer. He would have worked at the quarry in nearby Dreihausen. The work was chipping paving stones out of the basalt that was, and is, quarried there. The stones were either 11x11x11cm or 15x15x15cm in size. This was arduous but relatively well-paid work at the time. This is the same trade he followed in Diedenhofen.

513. ??

Notes for Hederich Riedesel:

He is the earliest verifiable ancestor of all the Riedesels of Wittgenstein and of almost all American Riedesels. His name is sometimes rendered as Heyrich or Henrich, but local experts affirm that it was not "Heinrich." He was the tenant in the house called "Herjes" in the small hamlet of Melbach. He served for several years as a coachman to the Count in Berleburg during the 30 Years War (1618-1648) and documents say that his house stood empty for five years. He had returned by 1642. While he was a commoner subject to the Count, various signs suggest that the family was of somewhat higher status than most. It is not certain that his father "Heyrich Riedesel" preceded him at Herjes, but it is very likely.

Hederich Riedesel and ?? had the following children:
